7 Drown, 1 Missing When Boat Sinks

BOWERS BEACH, Del., June 15.—(A)—The bodies of seven men who were swept from the wreckage of a small fishing boat which sanks on a shoal six miles off shore were taken from Delaware bay today. Only three survived the stormy night. Another was missing.

The 35-foot fishing boat Teal. chartered by ten western Penn-sylvanians for a day of fishing sank late yesterday afternoon. The boat struck some driftwood and started to leak about 5 o'clock yesterday.

The men jumped from the boat it settled and clung to the top of its cabin which remained slight-above water.

A wind and thunder storm lashed the waves over the cabin and broke their hold. Six of the men, including the three survivors. clung to a piece of wreckage throughout the storm.

State Senator J. F. Pruett, of Dahlonega, author of a constitutional amendment extending scope of the Confederate veterans' widows' pension law, said yesterday revised housing program for the that adoption of the amendment United States army by the said last week should make the law operative immediately.

Senator Pruett expressed the opinion no further action by the legislature would be necessary in order to make additional widows eligible for the pension. Other state officials previously had said some doubt existed as to whether the amendment could go into immediate effect, or whether an additional legislative act would be necessary.

The law extended from 1881 to Discriminatory Taxes Planned in New Deal Overhauling.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP) President Roosevelt tonight pledg-ed his second New Deal to a far-flung social-economic reform program designed to increase the national income and stimulate business by spreading more of the country's wealth among 40,000,-000 "ill-nourished ill-clad and ill-pussed" citizens

The new policy, he told news-papermen, will not necessitate an overhauling of the federal tax ructure and does not contemplate discriminatory taxes against the rich to help the poor. Businessmen, he said, will share in the discuss in a long long-distance prosperity which he expects will follow.

Clean False Teeth New, Magic Way

No Brushing—Yet Polished Like New in 5 to 15 Minutes!

Dental science has now found the ideal way to clean plates and removable bridges. All you do is place them in a small glass of water and add a little Polident powder. You can actually see the stains, tartar and foul deposits dissolve right before your eyes. And this Polident is absolutely harmless. It's made by the famous Wernet Laboratories and is approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau and other leading authorities.

In a few minutes your plate is sweet and clean—purified and sterilized. The teeth lose that dead, false look—they appear live and natural. Polident costs only 30 cents at any drug store for a long-lasting supply.

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN TRADE PACT

Hopes for a reciprocal tariff agreement to encourage trade between the United States and Great Britain do not seem so bright since the empire conference in London. While the final decision on the proposal will not be made until after the dominion premiers have had opportunity to ascertain the sentiments of their own governments on the subject, the postponement indicates a degree of opposition among the farflung units of the empire.

It is reported that, while the dominion premiers approved the basic principle of the proposed treaty, they hesitated before sacrificing any portion of the preferential treatment they now receive in the British market.

American demands for tariff concessions on American agricultural products is understood to be the chief stumbling block. Agricultural commodities form the greater part of the exports the dominions now make to Britain.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull will undoubtedly exert every effort to bring the treaty negotiations to a successful end. Such an agreement between the two nations which today uphold the banner of democracy in a dictatorplagued world and which, together, provide the greatest hope for continued world peace, would bind them still tighter in mutual commercial and political interest.

From the broad, world view nothing could be more desirable than the treaty which Secretary Hull seeks. The position of the dominion premiers, however, is easily understandable. It is probable the eventual agreement will be the result of mutual concessions and compromise which will satisfy the wishes of the dominions and at the same time achieve the broad objectives sought.

WISDOM FROM JAPAN

Chokijuro Kadono, prominent Japanese, speaking before the San Francisco Foreign Trade Association, declared his belief that many of the world's ills have arisen from failure to perceive that many so-called national problems are really international in scope.

"We have been slow to learn," said Mr. Kadono, "that the prosperity of a nation can be sound and lasting only in the measure that it contributes something to the prosperity of other nations."

Selfishness, as the visitor from Japan points out, reacts to the injury of the ungenerous more seriously than to its objective. The man who seeks to live for himself alone and to shut his eyes to the welfare of others, inevitably reaches that day when disaster leaves him with no outside resource of friendship or association to carry him through.

What is true of individuals is equally true of nations. The nation which tries to stay aloof from world commerce or which seeks to sell of its products without buying of other nations' commodities, in the long run suffers from its own effort for isolation.

Tariff barriers for one nation's well-being inevitably become a direct thrust against the well-being of another nation. Economic depression in any part of the world today is definitely reflected in the business affairs of all other countries. Poverty in China means a lowered world capacity to purchase American cotton and textiles, for instance.

"I think it is no exaggeration to say," continued Dr. Kadono, "that without prosperity in America there can be no real prosperity in Japan."

Those words can be paraphrased to describe a basic economic truth as follows: "Without prosperity in the world, generally, there can be no real prosperity in America."

SAMUEL DALE, PIONEER

Georgia will join with Mississippi and other southern states in exercises honoring the memory of Samuel Dale, hero of the period immediately after the War of the Revolution. The ceremonies will be held at the grave of Dale in Meridian, Miss., on October 15 and 16.

Samuel Dale takes high rank in that roster of daring souls who laid the groundwork, following the winning of American independence, for the great nation of today. He was a federal scout in the territory which then comprised Georgia but which today has been divided into three states, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

Dale's life reads like a story of adventurous fiction. A soldier under General Andrew Jackson, he fought at the battles of Horseshoe Bend and at New Orleans. He served under General Elijah Clark and was trumpeter for General Twiggs. He pioneered in trading with the Creek and Choctaw Indians and directed the trek of home seekers into the then unexplored territory which is now Mississippi. Those early heroes faced difficulties and privations which are unknown today. They were imbued with the spirit of true independence and depended upon their own initiative and strength for survival in the wilds. They faced each problem as it came and lived or died according to their own wit and resource and the will of God.

In their lives is inspiration for today and for tomorrow. Modern Georgians, faced with modern problems, can find spiritual clues to victory in the fundamentals of character which led such men as Samuel Dale in their struggles against nature and human foes in the long ago.

GOOD WILL FROM THE SKIES

The second annual air tour of Georgia will take off from Candler field tomorrow. Scores of planes will take part in the four-day aerial journey around the state, visiting 14 cities and leaving their message of good will and aviation progress all along the route.

It is little more than a quarter-century ago that daring motorists, spiritually akin to the flyers who today form this planecade, set out on "round-the-state" motorcades to bring the messages of transportation progress to every corner of Georgia.

Those automotive pioneers found mud roads, difficult hills and other handicaps for the primitive cars of their time. It was an adventure calling for bold spirits to set out on a six-day automobile tour of the state in 1910. Today the travelers by air take the place of those pioneers of the early days of the century. Yet the argonauts of the skyways face no such perils as their forerunners. Travel by air today is as safe as any other mode. It is, in most respects, immeasurably more convenient and, of course, more rapid.

The annual Georgia air tours are demonstrations of the days to come when individually-owned planes, perfected, will dot the skies at all hours, speeding in all directions, just as automobiles today roll in endless parade along the concrete highways.

A FINE SPECIAL EDITION

The Baker County News, published at Newton, the county seat, last week issued a remarkable special edition in celebration of the 25th anniversary of its founding.

This issue consists of 50 pages filled with information about the town, the county and the section. It is profusely illustrated with well-made engravings. Editorially and mechanically it would be a credit to any newspaper plant.

Newton is not a large town, though its population includes many of the finest citizens of Georgia. It is the center of a rich agricultural area and its gracious life retains much of that quiet charm which made this state famous around the world in the days of long ago. It is essentially a city of homes and its people are imbued with the ambition to make their town as lovely a place as can be found anywhere. They are rapidly succeeding in fulfillment of this ambition.

The Baker County News, founded in 1912 by the late Albert Norman McLeod, has been a leading factor in every movement for the benefit of Newton and Baker county. Its columns have carried inspiration to civic advancement in every issue. It is now published by J, H. Milward, with John Crouch as editor.

The edition of Friday last will go into the archives of Baker county as a record of high achievement and a promise of still finer things to come.

STYLES AND VITAL STATISTICS

Mrs. Helen Washburn, author, has been conducting an intensive study of the relationship between feminine styles and the birth rate. She makes the startling charge that unbecoming fashions in hats for women, for instance, are reflected in undue idleness for the stork the following year. "Men," she says, "just aren't interested in women when they wear funny hats." Hence, fewer marriages and a resultant slump in the national birth statistics.

Mrs. Washburn backs her contention by pointing to 1922, the year of the cloche hat; to 1927, cartwheel hats, and to 1931 (Empress Eugenies with that silly plume). The result, she says, was appallingly low birth rates in 1923. 1928 and 1932. All because, according to Mrs Washburn, there wasn't any allure in any of those hat styles

Washington heat, the present con-gress is being urged to pass with-out delay a series of bills, which, ires, but add up to a consistent picture. And the picture is of a tremendously centralized government, with power and authority vested in the President.

Powers which include legislation, backed up by the police au-thority, are to be vested in commissions, and these commissions are to be responsible, not to con-gress, but to the executive. Legislation will be initiated, not in congress, but in an executive secretariat and a national planning poard, the latter, again, to be at-ached, not to the legislative branch of government, but to the the most important fields of acin one respect what it now is, but the force of law, and disobedience this condition of affairs will be definitely legalized. It is possible that the people of the United States want to change the system of government under which the nation has been living for a hundred and fifty years. It is possible that they may come to think that the times demand such changes. They have the right so to will and to act. But it is impossible to believe that the people of the United States actually have the remotest idea of the true significance of the proposals which are being made under the general motif of "extending the frontiers of social progress." It is possible that the people of the States want to make a revolution. But if we want one, then in heaven's name, let us make one in full consciousness of what we are doing. If we wish to turn the congress of the United States into a mere sounding board and rubber stamp, vesting its traditional powers in commissions all held in the hands of the President, let us decide to do so after giving thought. I have understood most of them were what might properly be called impoverished. In fact, that there was practically nothing of value left after a certain Georgia tourist named Sherman had completed his ministrations to this state.

Nothing, that is, except the land of mankind only nature, through cataclysm or disaster, can take from him.

Yet, in all my reading and all my listening to the stories of those heroic men of the sixties, of their families and descendants, I don't recall that any of them applied for nclusion in the relief rolls.

Fair Enough The Radical Believes in the Sacredness of Property After He Buys a Home

By ROBERT QUILLEN

The first manufacturers and businessmen of America got their profit by trading overseas. Paying low wages was good business, for the home-town market scarcely counted.

But when America became the greatest free-trade area and the richest market in the world, even the dullest began to realize that a wage-earner is also a cash customer.

High wages became a necessary link in the chain of prosperity, and now America's workers are the best paid in the world.

Now there is one more lesson to learn. In the early days, the owner of the factory was a gentleman who lived in the only big house in the village, and his workmen were illiterate, humble and unwashed.

The rich man and his family were conscious of their superiority, but the arrangement had one drawback. They had nobody to neighbor with and no allies in time of trouble.

The opening up of the west and the exploitation of a continent's resources developed a new "upper class."

Ruthless young pirates, unlearned and unwashed, looted the raw land of its easy riches and left great fortunes to their children and The new heirs of wealth felt superior, of course, but insecure.

For they realized that one of two things must be true.

If superiority was a matter of blood, they were not superior to anybody, for they descended from pirate roughnecks; and if superiority resulted from wealth, the commonest people would become their equals by gaining equal wealth.

The poorest man could point to the heir of millions and say: "There, but for a lazy grandfather, go I." It was a clear victory for the theory of man's equality with man. Clearly we were all one race and a few generations of prosperity transformed lower class into upper class.

Now, in these troubled and uncertain times of change, the rich in every community are wondering anxiously how to make the future pleasant and secure for their children. Well, what will those children need most? They will need allies—neighbors like themselves, educated and conservative, who think and feel as they do and are equally eager to preserve the established arrangement of things.

It means brotherhood, of course, but brotherhood based on sound economic and social principles instead of sentimentality.

The smartest course for those who are on top will be to do their utmost, without regard for immediate profit, to give everybody the prosperity that is the base of education, culture, security, gracious living and contentment. The big land-owner surrounded by tenant farmers has no allies; when his neighbors own their little farms, every one sides with him

President Roosevelt virtually commanded sugar lobbyists to get out of town today.

He told reporters this lobby was the most pernicious of all groups seeking to influence congress, and declared that congress could pass the administration's sugar bill without any trouble if the lobbyists would leave Washington.

(The bill proposes to revise and extend the existing sugar quota system and provides for benefit payments to domestic producers.)

What it takes to run a Cotton Mill

First of all it takes money to run a mill. Not only to build and equip the mill, but for the purchase of cotton and the meeting of weekly payrolls. It requires knowledge of what type of cotton to buy, and how much to pay for it. It requires technical skill and executive ability to keep manufacturing costs down to the level of those of competing mills.

It requires constant alertness in keeping abreast of changing styles and fashions, to be sure the mill makes that which the public wants. And last, but not least, it requires a competent selling organization, to dispose of the entire output of the mill at a price that will bring the mill a profit.

The successful operation of a cotton mill is a difficult problem that requires money, technical skill, financial and executive ability, and marketing experience.

ATHENS, Ga., June 15 .- (AP)-M. Hubert, golf professional at Athens Country Club, will te a weekly column of news ut golf and other club activifor the Athens Banner-Herald.

The U. S. S. Dickerson was tied up yesterday at the docks in Savannah alongside the U. S. S. Decatur, both destroyers in the service of your country.

Late in the afternoon a couple of sea-going landlubbers, Reserve Officers Roy Mundorff and George Griffin, members of the Georgia Tech coaching staff, boarded the Dickerson. "Will you show me how to get downstairs?" asked Lieutenant Mundorff of the gang watch. "The port hatch forward on the well deck," said the watch, horrified at the use of the word "down-

"This way," said Mr. Griffin, who has sailed the seven seas and who is not exactly a landlubber. And he conducted Mr. Mundorff below to the wardroom. It was not much more than 20 minutes later that the watch noted a slight list to port. Hastily informing the officer on duty, they investigated.

They found Mr. Mundorff busy unpacking his sea-going wardrobe. They inspected the entire port side of the ship and came at last back to Mr. Mundorff. The Georgia Tech basketball coach's head was just visible above a stack of whites and blues and mess jackets and civilian clothes.

At last Mr. Mundorff had his clothes hung. It developed that Mr. Mundorff had unpacked 11 suits of clothing, including uniforms.

Mr. Griffin's baggage had arrived a moment later. Mr. Griffin had 10 suits. They hung those and there was then no room for either to enter. This had caused the list to port. But Captain V. F.

Rathbun, being a versatile man, is going to fix that.

This afternoon, the greatest landlubber of them all will arrive at the Dickerson. I refer to your old partner. Captain Rathbun will place him on the starboard side and the ship will be on an even keel.

THE GEORGIA TECHS.

Lieutenant Griffin, who is coach of the track team, and Lieutenant Mundorff, coach of the basketball team, will do their share of standing watches.

Lieutenant Griffin is an old salt, relatively speaking. Mr. Mundorff is making his maiden cruise. And your correspondent, having cruised with the Georgia Tech reserves last year, hopes to be of great assistance to Lieutenant Mundorff.

The Georgia Techs have been promoted this year to lead the cruise. They will occupy the flagship Decatur and the Dickerson, which follows next in line. Students from Yale, Harvard and Northwestern will follow in six other destroyers.

They go to San Juan, Puerto Rico; Guantanamo

Bay, Cuba, and to Kingston, Jamaica.

The government spends no money as well as it spends this money on the college students who are learning to be reserve officers in the navy. Perhaps it is well to say the government is spending no money on your correspondent. His paper is sending him.

At any rate, I must hurry on today to my old ship, the Dickerson. There is no telling but that Mr. Mundorff may purchase 14 or 15 more uniforms in Savannah and capsize

BRADDOCK-LOUIS.

Golf Association. Mrs. Wright won the low net prize while Mrs. Kaiser was the low gross winner. Tuesday's play was the last competitive practice for the association before the annual city of regret at being absent when the gong rings.

Braddock can win. It is a matter of legs. If he can can beat him.

Louis remains a very great enigma. The night he beat Primo Carnera he looked great. Admitting that Da Preem was last day of practice before next week's play. The players must be on the way out and a rather terrible fighter, Louis still looked

It required a punch to the head to show his weakness. The first good man he met beat him badly. That was Max Schmeling. Yet, it should not be forgot that Schmeling was in trouble in two rounds. There was a time there when the fight could have gone either way. It went Schmeling's way when he landed two good, solid head punches.

Schmeling is not a great fighter. He is a good one, with methodical method and a good Sunday punch in his right hand. He thinks. And, what is more important, he can keep thinking when hit. Which Louis showed a very lugubrious inability to do.

Dempsey said, after that fight, that Louis was one of those fighters who can't take a good hard blow on the head and keep on thinking. Braddock has a good right hand.

NOT ONE GREAT ONE.

The truth of the matter is, there isn't anywhere in the whole fight game one great fighter. Braddock, who lost 22 fights, never claimed to be one.

His manager, Joe Gould, paid him this tribute:

"He is not a great fighter. I have never claimed that. What I did say was that Jim has never been knocked out. He is a fighter who will fight. He doesn't know what it is to quit. And if he is hit and knocked down, he will get up and fight some more.' That's quite a tribute. Especially that last line.

"To get knocked down but have the head and the heart to get up and fight more." Well, anyhow, I'll be sitting before a short wave set somewhere midway between here and Puerto Rico listening in to what's happening.

I hope it will be Braddock—which I would hope no mat-ter whom he was meeting—because I like the man.

Durham Falters in Sixth as Champs Remain Jinxed at Rickwood.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 15 die Moore chased from the park, for protesting a field decision by Umpire Claude Bond, the Crackers lost their second game in a row to the Barons Tuesday night, 10 to 7. It was Atlanta's fifth straight loss here this year and their fifteenth out of 16 games for 1936-37. They have dropped their last 14 games at Rickwood.

Moore was ordered from the coaching line after violently pro-testing a decision of Umpire Bond when he called Eddie Rose out at second in the eighth.

The Crackers used three pitchers in an attempt to win their first game of the year at Rickwood, but failed. Bobby Durham went out in the sixth after five nice innings and Bill Beckman was relieved by Maltzberger in the eighth. Barons scored four runs in both the sixth and eighth innings.

Roy Joiner went the route despite the fact he allowed 14 hits and gave up three runs in the ninth. The Barons made 15 hits off the Cracker trio.

TREXLER TONIGHT.

Trexler will face Art Jones Wednesday night. The Barons made three straight singles in the second but got only one run, Stepp hitting into an un-assisted double play at second. The Crackers tied it in the third when Marshall Mauldin doubled to center, was sacrificed to third by Durham and scored after the catch on Luby's fly to center.

An error cost the Crackers run in the fourth when Chatham let Luce's grounder get through him and singles by Scott and Cihocki, batting stars in Monday night's game, brought him in. It was Cihocki's seventh straight hit in the series. He was to get his eighth bungle in a row later. Richards got nowhere after singling as first up in the fifth for the third Atlanta hit.

PITCHERS COLLAPSE.

What had until then been a fairly good hurling duel turned out to be a rout in the sixth and while both pitchers were hard hit, Joiner managed to weather the storm. Durham gave way to Bill Beck-man. Luby, Hill and Hooks singled consecutively for the Crackers and all three scored. Luby scored on Hooks' single, Hill scored after the catch on Rose's fly and Hooks came home on Richards' slow roller back of the pitcher's box.

A base on balls and four straight singles led the Barons to four runs and Durham to the showers. A wild pitch let one man in. Beck-man relieved Durham with nobody out and while he walked one man, with no damage, he retired the side without any unexpected scoring. The fourth Baron to score in the inning came in after an outfield fly.

MOORE BANISHED.

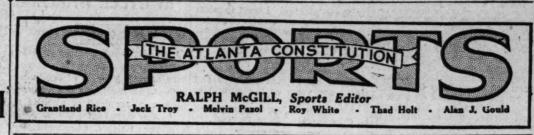

The Crackers seemed to be well on the road to a nice rally in the eighth when Manager Moore was ordered from the field. Hooks and Rose singled as first men up, but in attempting to take second on the throw to third for Hooks, Rose was out. Manager Moore charged onto the field, but didn't stay long before Umpire Bond, who also chased Paul Richards from the game Monday night, did likewise for Boss Eddie The Barons filled the bases with none out in their half of the eighth. Joiner singled, Seghi went safe on Beckman's error and Clancy beat out a bunt. Luce scored Joiner and Seghi with a single to left. On Garbark's bunt Beckman threw into left field trying to get Luce and two more Barons scored. Beckman gave way to Maltzberger.

With nobody out, Maltzberger walked Scott but Garbark was at third on Trapp's grounder and Trapp was forced at second by Cihocki. Stepp forced Cihocki.

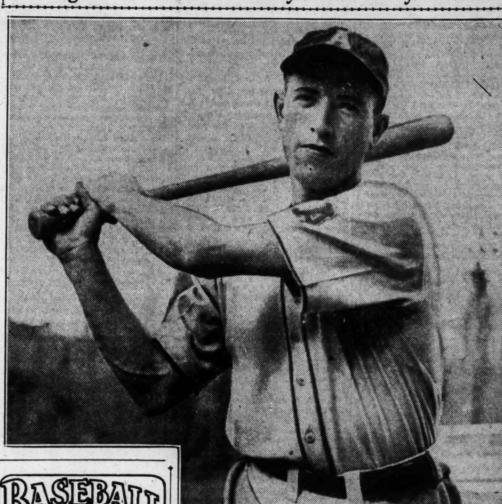

Chatham singled to open the ninth and Ace Parker, batting for Mauldin, hoisted to Luce in deep center. Galvin batted for Maltzberger and reached third and Chatham scored when Trapp threw wild at second when Galvin tried to stretch his hit to a double. Luby beat out a bunt and Galvin scored after the catch on Hill's fly to left. Hooks singled and Rose follow-ed suit, scoring Luby. Mailho flied to Scott to end the game.

BOSTON, June 15.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox gave Bob Grove, their veteran southpaw ace, plenty of hitting and almost perfect support today when he gained his fourth victory of the season at the expense of the Chicago White Sox by a 5-1 margin. Grove, touched for seven hits during this series' opener, kept them scattered and deserved a Sabin, alternate on the Davis shutout. The only enemy run, made in the eighth, was unearned. LONDON, June 15.—(P)—Paced by red-thatched Don Budge, American representatives in the Queens Club tennis tournament fared well today, losing only two members in the advance to the third round of the singles and in the opening doubles' tests.

Budge, taking only 18 minutes to eliminate Lanky J. Van Den Eynde, of Belgium, 6-0, 6-3, stroked his way through the second round along with Hal Surface, of Kansas City; Charles Harris, of West Palm Beach, Fla., and his Davis cup teammates, Bryan Grant, Wayne Sabin and Gene Mako. America's No. 1 player also paired with Mako to score a second round doubles triumph from Henry Billington and J. F.

cup squad, hurt Frankie Parker's chances of playing in the inter-zone finals when he whipped the New Jersey schoolboy 3-6, 7-5, 6-2 in the only All-American match of the day. Parker apparently had the match under control after taking the first set and building up a 4-1 lead in the second. He then made the mistake, however, of re-verting of a base line game at which Sabin proved his master. At the end of the two-hour match, Parker was almost out on his feet. GRANT BRILLIANT.

Grant, playing brilliantly, mere-ly breezed through his match, elimnating V. B. Briggs, 6-1, 6-2. Surface also won in straight sets, beating J. S. Oliff, of England, 6-4, 6-4, but Harris was forsed to three before whipping E. E. Fanning, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1. Make had no trouble disposing of the Prince of Kutch, of India, 6-1, 6-0.

Larry Hall, of San Jose, Cal., was the only other American casualty. He was unable to cope with the game of F. Nakana, Japanese Davis cup player, who won, 4-6, 6-3, 8-6. Surface and Harris also won their round match in the doubles with 6-0, 6-1, triumph over Briggs and Smye. The Grant-Sabin and Hall-Parker combinations advanc-

The point is that Hill, who went all last year, with the exception of the early part of the race in April, without ever reaching 300, is now proving most valuable both at bat and in the field. On the last day of the '36 season, he raised his average to .288. ERRORLESS BALL,

Hill has played errorless base-ball in the last 17 games, handling 53 chances. And he has been hitting in the pinches, and otherwise. Hill is looking even better than he did when he joined the club as a raw recruit in the spring of 1935 and proved a sensation at bat and in the field.

Police Chief M. A. Hornsby called the practice unsportsmanlike and Alderman G. Dan Bridges, chairman of the police committee, also object to the idea.

"Police should be in uniform to help educate the public to observe the law, and not to trap them in violations of it," Bridges observed.

Mayor Hartsfield, on the othe hand, pointed out that "It seems hard to educate the people of Atlanta along that line." On orders of Captain Jack Mal-close at hand.

Some of the special plainclothesmen even went Captain Malcom's orders one better, and appeared dressed in overalls, resulting in a phone call to the police station that "a bunch of farmers" were impersonating policemen making arrests.

RICH'S

Offer Wide Variety and Interest

By Sally Forth.

THIS summer is proving a most interesting time for the trio of lovely daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Tait, of 30 Mathieson drive, N. E. The first occasion of importance was when the family gathered recently in Jacksonville, Fla., their former home, for the beautiful wedding ceremony at which Dorothy Wilhelmina Tait became the bride of Herman Segar Fittz, of Atlanta. The couple has now returned from a wedding trip and is busily engaged in apartment hunting, preparatory to establishing residence here.

Yesterday proved a red letter day in the life of Yvønne Tait, youngest daughter of the household. She was graduated with high honors from the Cincinnati College of Music at Cincinnati, receiving a bachelor degree in cello. She will arrive here within a few days to visit her parents and later will go ?

visit her parents and later will go to a girls' camp in Virginia, where she will be instructor in music for the summer.

Mattie Tait, the third of the trio, sails on Friday from New York city on the S. S. Transylvania for a tour of Europe, visiting eight countries prior to her return on September 1. She will be in Salsburg, Austria, to hear Toscannini conduct the opera, "Fidelio," at the festival, which is an annual event in Salsburg. She will later go to Hamburg, Germany, to study violin for four weeks. Miss Tait is supervisor of music at the Lee High school in Jacksonville and is widely known as a brilliant violinist.

Early in September Mattie and Yvonne will return to Atlanta for a stay and Sally is sure that it will be a grand reunion.

A GROUP of young men who as boys belonged to a club in Savannah, where they were inseparable companions, will have a reunion tonight when they assemble at the cabin of Freddie Bull near Chamblee. The occasion will he a stag party in honor of one of the former club members, Marion Rivers, who will be married tomorrow to Anne Jeter.

The air will doubtless be full of reminiscences of happy boyhood days when William Myers Jr. and Alexander R. Lawton III, of Savannah; John Burroughs, of of Savannah; John Burroughs, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Dan Stod-dard, of St. Augustine, Fla., meet tomorrow's groom after a lapse of several years.

Party Arranger Very Busy With du Pont-Roosevelt June Wedding

ranged du Pont Debut Party Details, Also

By BLANCHE KRAUSE.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15 .-About the busiest person in town these days is Mrs. Edward J. Mac-Mullan who is directing the arrangements for the du Pont-Roosevelt wedding June 30.

Not that handling large parties is anything new to her. Next year will be her 14th in the business of taking all the details of party plans off the shoulders of married society hostesses. She has been working on the du Boat week. been working on the du Pont wedding since March, and finds all the ramifications it has developed in the last two weeks a bit be-"Of course, "I'm delighted to be 'doing' such an important wedding, but I'm in charge of other parties this June, and they're just as important to the people giving them as the du Pont-Roosevelt wedding is to average deep."

is to anyone else."

It was Mrs. MacMullan who arranged Ethel du Pont's parties in her debutante year, and her ap-pointment to "do" the wedding came as an outgrowth of that. How does she manage those long lists of dancing men which must be supplied for a large debutante party? Says Mrs. McMullan fer-vently at her office:

"If there ever should be a fire here, you'll find me jumping out the window with only that list clutched in my hand! I'll even leave my new mink cape behind rather than the list.

"The list has been built up by tireless effort. It's constantly being revised. I'm always at the parties, and I see how the young men behave. If it's badly, off the list they must go. If they crash one party to which they haven't been invited, it cuts them off from future invitations they might otherwise get. And delinquents must be weeded out."

"Delinquent" is Mrs. MacMul-lan's designation for the lads who consistently neglect to reply to in-"The cut-in system of dancing is the reason we need so many extra men at parties, of course. At a dancing party, we must have twice as many boys as girls, at a large ball three times as many, to assure an adequate stag-line.

"It's a vicious system and it spoils dancing. A popular girl doesn't get a chance really to dance at all, she changes partners so often. And the girls who are neglected by the stag-line have a miserable time.

"I noticed a change creeping in this winter, though. Lots of times, when the orchestra was playing a beautiful Viennese waltz, I've no ticed girls flatly refusing to be cut in on. They enjoyed the dancing so much they weren't going to have it spoiled by taking a new partner every few steps.

"I think behavior at parties is better since repeal. Most of the debs drink tomato juice, which we always serve on the cocktail trays. And both boys and girls drink quantities of milk. I always en-courage a milk bar at parties."

MacMullan. After them come it can be the all-day companion such details as decorations, food, or the particular woman. receiving lines, acceptances and regrets to invitations, music, seating arrangements for sit-down dinners—"You can't put a girl who knows nothing but horses beside a boy who doesn't talk horses, and the health-giving heams to reneboy who doesn't talk horses, and the health-giving beams to pene ect them to have a good time."

Then there are plans for debutante wardrobes, wedding gowns, trousseaux and household linens, with which she assists when re-

"But I don't do very much with othes. Brides and debs have been buying clothes a long time, and they know what the want. "I haven't helped Ethel du Pont with her dresses and now I'm glad, for I can truthfully say I don't know what she's wearing. The food? I can't say yet, but it will be high tea food. And there'll be

"I must be leaving for Wilmington to see Ethel's younger sister, Aimee, to make some plans for her debutante party. I'm bringing her out next fall."

FRIENDLY COUNSEL By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield:

My husband used to be a model; he was unselfish, generous, loving. Now he wastes his money on friends and foolishness, deprives the children and me of everything but food. He still expects a good table all the time but puts up a small penny for it. He provides no amusement for me or the children and yells if they raise any racket when he's at home. He must be insane. I agree that the man who earns the money should keep a reasonable portion of it for his pleasure but I don't agree that he has the right to spend the llon's share being a good guy with friends while his fam-ily hasn't the price of a movie ticket. Is it not a man's duty to look out for those who love him and are dependent upon him? My husband's living, while not large, is ample to supply all our needs and I am sick of bickering over the subject. If you will tell a distressed wife how to make him see the other side of the question she will thank Leave off the bickering and the colding. Turn in and show your husband that he can have more fun with his family than with his men friends. Show him that he can get more for his money spent on his wife and children than he can get for money squandered on being a good guy. That's a large order, but it won't take as much out of you to fill it as you are now wasting in being unpleasant.

Suppose you have been a model wife and don't deserve what you are getting, martyr airs won't get you anything better. A man knows a woman's martyr manner is only another trick to beat him over the head and cat, dog, child and husband inva-riably run away from the punishing stick. The more they de-serve punishment the faster and the further they run.

No doubt every wife who has been faced with the spectacle of her husband's going to pleces be-fore her very eyes has tried the tongue lashing and the nagging method of standing up to put stif-fening in his spine. No doubt every wife who has ever tried it has failed; for a husband can't be controlled through fear of a wife. She can't make him do right by criticizing him and complaining of him.

Certainly it is a man's duty to look out for his dependents and when he ignores his family re-sponsibilities, wastes his sub-stance in riotous living and races pretty good evidence that he isn't grown up mentally or morally. There are a lot of big babies masquerading as men and their wives have to treat them as alling children, coddle them, coax them, divert them, entertain them, charm the money out of their pockets. That's the only sort of pocket picking that is successful; for these big bables hold on to the money to make

MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Monday.—Yesterday afternoon four children and eight grown-ups joined by husband on the U. S. S. Potomac at Quantico. Before he arrived we had time to drive around the

I saw this post started at the time of the World War and it is hard to believe it is the same place. The officers' quarters are very attractive and they now have enough room so that all the officers now have enough room so that all the officers can actually live there. The enlisted men are also well housed, and the work of the near-by CCC camp shows itself in the improved roads and care of the woods.

The children could hardly wait to get on the boat and Mrs. Rathbone's younger little boy, Ludlow, interested me very much. He is a rather wiry, slight child with a sensitive face and a keep eagler personality. He was the college of the and a keen, eager personality. He was the only one I had the slightest fear of losing overboard, because he was so engrossed in what the sailors did one could quite easily imagine him walking off the edge of the dock without realizing he had reached the end of it, or falling over the rail because he had forgotten to

We all stood at attention as we passed Mt. Vernon and I explained to the children that this was an honor paid to the memory of George Washington ever since his death. I know only too well time means very little to children, for I once had one of my own grandchildren ask me if I was older than their great-grandmother. So now I try to describe periods of time in a way that will make them realize what one might call the march of history.

All the rest of my guests were gone by this morning, but our old friend from Albany, N. Y., Robert Fitzmaurice, and Mrs. Baker and her son, Bobby, are still here. I must say it is pleasant to have a small boy to take riding at 7 a. m. and to swim with before breakfast on our return.

As we passed the Lincoln memorial he looked at the reflecting pool and murmured: "I must do one thing before I leave, Mother says I can't have another sailboat, but I want to sail one in that pool." This was a gentle hint which I felt I could not ignore, so I promised he should have a dollar to spend in any way he wishes. He promptly told me he would buy a very good boat, perhaps one that would have a rudder!

This afternoon, Mrs. Eleanor Patterson gave me one of the most delightful parties I have been to this season. She now owns "The Dower House," which we knew years ago as a charming old house where you could order lunch or dinner and spend a pleasant evening out of doors. She has restored the house and made it really ning out of doors. She has restored the house and made it really quiet, peaceful and beautiful.

Her garden is a dream of mixed color, her swimming pool is one of the loveliest I have ever been in, with a tennis court just above it, so that you can combine getting hot and cool! She is a charming, cordial hostess and it was quite evident all the newspaperwomen present, besides some of her own personal friends, were enjoying every minute of a perfect afternoon.

have been very remarkable, for with the circus at one time or listen to what the circus advertising man said about it:

including a young one.

"Hideous Hyena Striata Gigantium! The mammoth midnight ma-rauding man-eating monstrosity, the prowling grave-robbing demon of all created things, who, while the world sleeps, sneaks under cover of darkness to the cemetery with ghoulish glee and robs the tombs. His hideous blood-curdling laughter paralyzes with ror the bravest hearts."

The hyena was displayed by the Ringling show."

That was back in the year 1885. The hyena was the beginning of the Ringling Brothers Menagerie which became an important part of their circus.

Seven sons of the Ruengeling family joined to form the Ringling Brothers circus. They changed their name to "Ringling," to make it more simple, also to suggest the Fifty-two years ago, there was circus ring. Five of the brothers a circus with just one animal in were more active than the other its menagerie." This animal must two, but all had something to do

> As boys, they had spent most of their time in Baraboo, Wis., and McGregor, Ia. They were no more than boys when they gave their first circus, charging "pins" for admission. Later they charged pennies for a circus frolic in their home town. Still later they went on a tour of Minnesota, giving comedy plays and concert num> bers. The next step was a little traveling circus. The equipment was hauled from town to town aboard wagons. The brothers added to it as fast as they could. Within a few years after they obtained the hyena, their menagerie contained ons, tigers and elephants. Meeting success in making more and more money, the brothers were able to pay for special railway cars to transport their circus on long trips. They traveled as far south as Texas, as far east as Pennsylvania and Connecticut. While the Barnum and Bailey circus was in Europe, they rose to a high place in the circus world. Scores of elephants were obtained by Ringling Brothers, and the big beasts were trained to per-form in the ring. People watched with interest while the elephants stood on their hind legs and carried on other "acts."

NEW YORK, June 15 .- (AP)-Although there was no important turn for the better in strike news, stock market leaders today retraced some of the ground lost in Monday's slide.

Selected steels, motors, farm implements, rubbers, rails and specialties were the principal climbers and advances of fractions to 3 or more points predominated in the final hour.
The steel labor deadlock, strike interruptions in automotive plants, the French financial crisis and many business question marks continued to put the brakes on any extensive recovery move.

At the same time much of the day's improvement was attributed to quick-turn buying and short covering based on the theory yesterday's relapse may have repre-sented a temporary climax which could result in at least a fair-sized upward reversal.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Until there is some definite news regarding the labor situation, a backing and filling market on low volume is the best that can be expected.

BEER & CO.—From the immediate and longer term standpoint, we believe the list is in a broad buying range.

THOMSON & McKINNON—Obviously speculative sentiment and perhaps to a leaser extent investment confidence have been badly shaken by the drop of stock prices through their previous resistance points.

DO THE SECTION OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY

scares should tend to extend the present rally.

BERA CO—Market trend from now until middle August would seem to be dominated by weather conditions entirely, but we believe purchases on moderate recessions will prove profitable later.

THOMSON & MCKINNON—Rallies may be more frequent from now on, but the major downward trend has not changed yet. BEANE—Bearish sentiment still predominates and it looks like it will take continued unfavorable weather or a material improvement in outside conditions to bring about sustained advance.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Should foreign markets continue strong, we would expect our wheat price to follow, but would protect long commitments with close stones. protect long commitments with close stops.

BEER & CO.—Strong cables, dryness in Saskatchewan, and wet weather in southwest caused most shorts to cover, but with big movement, clearing soon in southwest, prices look rather high, and would feel inclined to sell on further strength.

THOMSON & McKINNON—The situation continues to suggest higher prices, but with weather the dominating influence, we would use sharp bulges to take profits with a view to reinstating on setbacks.

FENNER & BEANE—While conditions are unfavorable in Canada we favor the buying side on all small recessions.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—Europe is apparently taking a more serious view of the drouth situation in southern Saskatchewan.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—Weather factors are still dominant, but some observers feel that market should be due for a technical rally, particularly in view of the fact that cottonized oil is selling proportionately lower than tallow which is an inedible soap material.

CHICAGO, June 15. - (A) Rushing excitedly upward 4 and 5 cents a bushel, wheat markets on both sides of the Atlantic indicated alarm today relative to prospective world breadstuff scarcity. In a crop scarce market, Winnipeg quotations led the way, skyrocketing 5 cents a bushel on all future deliveries both of wheat and rye, the furthest immediate allowable limit. Simultaneously, the Chicago wheat market soared 3 Kang&E 6s 2022A 11734 11736 11736 4 Ky Util 61/2s 48 D 991/s 99 99 99 2 Ky Util 68 9 1 84 84 84 84 5 Ky Util 5s 61 H 841/4 841/4 841/4 41-8 cents maximum for wheat, and 5 cents for rye.

Setting the wheat trade aflame were official reports today indicat-ing that wheat and rye alike promise poor harvests in Europe, and that Saska'chewan province, the largest wheat producer in Canada, is confronted by rapidly increasing danger of crop collapse in 7,000,000 acres because of widespread drouth. Reports of unfavorable conditions in domestic wheat harvest areas southwest added to trade uneasiness, and capping the climax were forecasts late today that any general moisture relief in the next 48 hours for drouth-periled dis-

SHADES cleaned like new. New Shades reas. Wright Window Shade. HE. 9549.

Tarsan touched the ground first and he had thrown off the parachute harness by the time Brown was down. A moment later the two men started for the temple at a run. There was no one to block their way. Even the guards at the outer gate fled in terror.

As they entered the courtyard, a few frightened leopards raced past them. They had been terri-fied by the flames that devoured the wrecked airplane, a hundred feet away. Now the Jungle Lord, followed by Brown, ran for the main entrance of the building.

2 CCC MEN KILLED

WHEN TRUCK UPSETS | Barrel of Sand EVERETT, Pa., June 15 .- (AP)-An army truck loaded with 19 CCC enrolees collided with an automobile and overturned, fatally injuring two youths and seriously hurting four others.

Leon Nelson and H. B. Hicks both of Brenten, Ala., and mem-bers of the Wells Tannery CCC Camp in Fulton county, died yes-

Officials of the Detroit Rendering Company who examined the carcass said today they found that much sand in her stomach. They found no evidence of the boots which Eva's keeper, Joseph Secastian, believed the elephant ate.
